Las Casitas revisits the folklore, culture and politics surrounding the Puerto Rican casita (Spanish and Bill Aguado, opened at the Smithsonian Institution, travelled to Chicago and closed in the Bronx in 1991. This exhibition has elements from 20 years ago, updated with art, photographs and Objet d'art from Rincon Criollo, a legendary green space. The vernacular architecture once found in Puerto Rico is now present in urban casitas. Proposed works and photographs by Martha Cooper.

This exhibition, on view in the Main Gallery and Project Room, is co-organized by the Hostos Center for the Arts & Culture and Wally Edgecombe, for the Eugenio Maria de Hostos Community College (CUNY) in collaboration with the Bronx Council on the Arts.

It is part of the Bomplenario Festival that is celebrated by the Hostos Center every other year in October.
